

Emergency & Crisis Resources

Below are resources and tips to use in an emergency or crisis. This information won't assure a specific result for you but may help you stay safe and healthy.

WHAT IS EMERGENCY CARE?

An emergency is a serious situation when help is needed right away for medical, mental health or safety issues from law enforcement, fire department, or an ambulance. If you think you may have a medical emergency, call your doctor, go to the emergency department, or call 911 immediately. Examples include:

- Chest pain or pressure
- Significant stomach pain that comes on quickly
- Decrease or loss of consciousness or alertness
- Sudden shortness of breath
- Unable to get or use food, shelter, or clothing due to a mental condition.
- Self-harm actions or trying to hurt another person

This is not intended to replace medical advice or treatment. Always ask a doctor or other qualified health provider about medical problems. Child & Family Center does not suggest or endorse any specific medical tests, doctors, products, or procedures.

CONTACT 911

You can call or text 911 for help. Text-to-911 is sending a text message to 911 from a mobile phone or device. Since calls to 911 provide more information to 911 call centers, you should call 911 during an emergency if possible.

Be ready to give:

- Location of the emergency (street address and room/apartment number)
- Phone number you are calling from
- Nature of the emergency

Give information about the person or client. It helps with the response to the situation:

- Age of the person or client involved
- Your relation to them (if relevant)
- Their developmental age and diagnosis (if relevant to the emergency)
- Do they have a weapon?
- Risk factors in the home or where the person or client is located (if relevant)

Once law enforcement arrives:

- Remain calm so no one thinks you might be out of control or a danger to others
- Speak clearly with law enforcement
- For domestic violence situations, inform law enforcement that you are a victim as soon as they arrive
- If you called from your car, have your ID and other information ready. Turn on the light inside your car.

How can I get a copy of my 911 call?

You can ask for 911 records verbally or in writing to the specific agency that holds the records. Send a written request that provides as much information as possible, such as the exact date and time of the call.
